CHAIRMAN'S STATEMENT

The quarter between July and September 2026 has been one of continued progress for Royal Nairobi Golf Club, marked by encouraging performances on the course, growth in our membership, investment in our facilities, and continued attention to the Club's governance and financial health.

I am particularly pleased with the Club's success in the Patron's Cup, where Royal secured the Plaque Division and earned promotion to the Shield Division for next year. Our victory in the Sigona-Royal-Nyali Matchplay is another reflection of the strength, competitiveness and tradition that continue to define Royal.

Away from the course, we continue to invest in the Club's future. The ongoing improvements to the course, particularly the redesign and relaying of holes number 2, 14, 15 and 5 greens demonstrate our commitment to elevating the facilities and therefore members' experience. The refurbishment of the Royal Garden, undertaken in partnership with Savanna, adds another dimension to the Club's social and hospitality offering.

The continued interest in membership and the progress towards revising our bylaws are equally important. A strong club must continue to grow while protecting the standards, traditions and values that have sustained it over the years. I particularly wish to encourage the newly balloted members to engage and participate in the club's offerings; patronize the club and take up sponsorship opportunities for club events.

I wish to emphasize the need to uphold the Club's bylaws and especially with regards to the quality controls we have in place; this is the only way in which we will ensure that all the members get the most out of their membership and at an equal footing. I urge the members to support the Board and management in upholding the set standards.

As we look ahead, our focus remains on strengthening the Club for the benefit of present and future members. I thank our members, committees, staff and partners for their continued contribution to the progress of Royal Nairobi Golf Club.

ROYAL TREASURES FROM THE ARCHIVES

THE ANNUAL MATCHPLAY TROPHY: ENDURING BOND BETWEEN RNGC AND MGC

Some trophies celebrate victory; others tell a story of friendship, tradition and a shared history that transcends generations. The Annual Matchplay trophy between Royal Nairobi Golf Club (RNGC) and Mombasa Golf Club (MGC) belongs to the latter. Representing a longstanding tradition between two of Kenya's oldest golfing institutions, the trophy embodies a relationship built on friendly rivalry, reciprocal visits and a shared passion for the game. As the tournament alternates between the two clubs, it continues to bring their members together, renewing a bond that has endured through the decades.

Established in 1906 and 1911 respectively, Royal Nairobi Golf Club (then just Nairobi Golf Club) and Mombasa Golf Clubs occupy a special place in Kenya's golfing history. Their association is deeply woven into the development of organized golf in the country, with archival records documenting their annual fixtures as far back as 1981. Over the years, the competition has appeared under various names, including the Annual Match, Annual Fixture and Joint Mug and Matchplay, reflecting a tradition that has evolved while retaining its essential character.

A particularly delightful connection between the clubs is found in the person of Sylvester Weekend Odhiambo, who once served as Captain of Mombasa Golf Club and is now Chairman of Royal Nairobi Golf Club. His journey from leading one club to chairing the other is a fitting illustration of the close ties that bind the two institutions. Indeed, the relationship is not merely about which club takes home the trophy; it is about the people, shared experiences and enduring friendships that make the contest special.

For all the competitive spirit the trophy inspires, the Annual Matchplay is equally cherished for the camaraderie surrounding it. The exchange of banter, laughter and good-natured bragging rights is as much a part of the occasion as the golf itself. Members travel to familiar and unfamiliar fairways, reunite with old friends, forge new friendships and enjoy the unique pleasure of representing their clubs. Saturday's social golf and joint competitions, documented in historical reports, have traditionally complemented the main inter-club contest, reinforcing the spirit of fellowship that underpins the rivalry.

ROYAL TREASURES FROM THE ARCHIVES

This relationship also finds a remarkable parallel in the history of the Tannahill Shield, RNGC's signature Easter tournament. History has it that competition began in 1924 as the Easter Tournament, played between Nairobi Golf Club and Mombasa Golf Club, over time, other clubs were invited to participate alongside Mombasa and Royal and so it remains to this day. What began as a gathering of a handful of clubs grew into one of Kenya's most celebrated amateur golf traditions. More than a century later, the Tannahill Shield continues to bring clubs together over the Easter holiday, carrying forward the spirit of inter-club competition established at its inception.

The Annual Matchplay trophy therefore represents something especially meaningful. While the Tannahill Shield brings together a wider golfing community, the Mombasa–Royal contest preserves the longstanding connection between two of its pioneering clubs. It is a tangible reminder that competition can strengthen relationships rather than diminish them, and that traditions endure when successive generations choose to keep them alive.

Today, with hosting alternating between RNGC and Mombasa Golf Club, the tradition has a clear future. Each edition offers one club the privilege of welcoming its counterpart, while the return fixture ensures that neither side's hospitality or competitive spirit is taken for granted. The trophy passes between clubs, but the relationship it represents remains constant.

Ultimately, the Annual Matchplay is more than a contest for golfing honors. It is a celebration of heritage, friendship and the enduring value of belonging to institutions whose stories are intertwined. As new captains take up their responsibilities, new players join the teams and old rivals gather once more on the first tee, the trophy will continue to carry a message that extends beyond the final score: the greatest victory is a tradition that endures, and a friendship that grows stronger with every match.

CAPTAIN'S STATEMENT

It has been an exciting quarter for golf at Royal Nairobi Golf Club, with the Club recording some commendable results in internal and inter-club competitions, and continuing to build on the competitive spirit that defines our golfing calendar.

Our performance in the Patron's Cup was a particular highlight. Winning the Plaque Division and securing promotion to the Shield Division next year is an achievement that reflects the commitment and competitiveness of our players. We look forward to taking on the new challenge when the next edition comes around.

The Club also enjoyed success at the coast in the Sigona-Royal Nairobi-Nyali Matchplay, while Mombasa Golf Club retained the Annual Championship in our traditional duel. These inter-club contests are about more than the result; they strengthen friendships between clubs and preserve golfing traditions that have been built over many years. We look forward to welcoming Mombasa Golf Club to Royal early next year.

I would also like to draw members' attention to the ongoing work on the course. With works on holes 2, 14, 5 and 7 greens, these holes currently make the course unqualifying for handicap scoring. Members are encouraged to take note of this position as the works continue.

Our priority is to see the course improvements completed as efficiently as possible and to restore normal playing conditions.

I particularly want to thank the team Golf and Course Committee for the work and commitment they have shown in delivering well-organized competitions, and course improvement planning in coordination with the management teams.

I also thank our members for their patience and continued support as we work towards that and many other objectives in our quest to better play and member experiences on and off the course.

COMPETITION, CAMARADERIE & A ROYAL ROAR

The period between July and September barely gave the scorecards time to dry. Between Club Nites, charity tournaments, championship golf, corporate days and inter-club battles, July to September delivered another wonderfully busy chapter at the Real Home of Golf.

July opened with Steven Otieno winning the June-Borns Club Nite, partly supported by CIC Group, before the Kenya Red Cross Society Golf Day brought golf and a worthy cause together. ICEA Lion Group, the Boma Charity Golf Day by Kenya High School Alumni, the Safaricom-supported April Mug, JWines Club Nite and Nation Media Group Golf Day kept the fairways buzzing, while Pro Kasuku's Book Launch Club Nite added a literary twist to the 19th-hole conversation.

The month's headline contest was the KGU-championed Kenya Amateur Strokeplay Championship. After three closely fought rounds, Jay Sadhu emerged victorious, adding his name to the championship's roll of honor. A club-sponsored Club Nite and the Don Bosco Charity Golf Day, supported by CMA and Lofty Corban Investment, brought a packed July to a close.

August picked up exactly where July left off. Road to Somabay opened proceedings before Alice Wanjiru produced an excellent 42 Stableford points to win that week's Club Nite. The All Saints Cathedral Charity Golf Day supported its Children and Teen Centre, while the June Mug and the Wanawake Kwa Wanawake Charity Golf Tournament brought more competition and purpose to the course.

A lively Club Nite supported by KWAL, Safarilink, Glum Up Squad and Zanna Leather saw Isaiah Masinde claim the overall prize before attention shifted to inter-club duty.

And then came the roar.

GOLF EVENTS

After a heartbreaking second day at the Patron's Cup at Muthaiga, the Royal Simbas produced a stirring final-day comeback to win the Plaque Division in one of the tournament's closest contests.

This year's Patron's Cup marked the 5th Edition of a tournament determined to grow beyond the borders of the country by welcoming teams from across the wider East African region.

Team Royal, sharpened by Team Coach and Club Pro Jeff Kubwa, led by Team Captain Collins Too and charged by Team Manager Tonny Tugee, faced fierce Golf Park and Kiambu opponents in the Plaque Division. After a shaky Day 1 and an almost uncertain Day 2, the Royal Simbas made it their mission to deliver one of the wildest comebacks in the tournament's history, ultimately clinching the Plaque Division title.

They carried that energy straight to the Mombasa Tour, defeating Nyali and Sigona in the three-way matchplay to return home with the shield. Mombasa Golf Club, however, defended its own trophy in a nail-biting contest, winning 10 matches to Royal's eight, with one all square. The rivalry resumes next year.

Back home, Martin Wambua closed the month by taking the August-Borns Club Nite.

September kept the leaderboard busy. Andrew Kipkemboi, playing off handicap 16, returned 43 points to win the JWines Club Nite which was also supported by Belt & Buckle. At the September Mug, Collins Too won Division A, Josiah Kogo Division B, Rajab Solanki Division C and Emma Omwenga the Subsidiary category.

Vincent Kyaka followed with 43 points off handicap 24 to win a Club-sponsored Club Nite, before Chrispin Sankale produced one of the quarter's standout cards; 47 points off handicap 18, to win the IQSK 28th Annual Golf Tournament, supported by Lofty Corban and KABCEC.

At the PGK Equator Tour, supported by Safaricom, NCBA, Visa, Britam, Kenya Airways, Betika and Johnnie Walker, Benjamin Koyier took the overall prize with 42 points off handicap 18. Japanese Golf Day and the Contractors Club Nite added further variety to the September calendar.

The Dr. Kibata Golf Day, organized by City Eye Foundation and its partners, then brought the golfing community together in honor of the late Dr. Kibata's vision of extending critical eye-care services to the less fortunate. Sarah Bisera emerged overall winner on a day when the cause ultimately mattered more than the scorecard.

The September-Borns Club Nite and Sunset Golf Society Golf Day events rounded out three months of championship pressure, charity, partnerships, rivalry and plenty of 19th-hole conversation.

LADY CAPTAIN'S STATEMENT

A strong sense of fellowship and growth continued to shape the activities of the Ladies' Section during this newsletter period.

One of the highlights, besides the good times we continue to enjoy on the course, was our High Tea Induction session, which brought together more than 20 new lady members for a colorful and delightful welcome.

Beyond the occasion itself, the session provided an opportunity to connect, share information and help our new members feel at home within the Royal family.

The continued growth and competitiveness of the Ladies Section is encouraging, and we remain committed to creating an environment where every lady golfer can participate, build friendships and enjoy the game. New members bring fresh energy and ideas, while our established members play an important role in ensuring that the traditions and spirit of the Ladies Section continue to thrive.

Over this period, the Ladies Section has recorded great successes in both local and KLGU-championed events; thus far, we have hosted five ladies' events, attended a number of League matches and external competitions including most recent Eileen Belcher at Thika Greens.

I look forward to an equally active period ahead and encourage our lady members to continue participating fully in our golfing and social activities. Royal is at its best when members come together, and the Ladies Section continues to be an important part of that community.

COLOUR, COMPETITION & A LITTLE MATCHPLAY DRAMA

The Royal Ladies have never needed much encouragement to bring color to the course, but this quarter came with something extra: fiercely contested championships, league assignments, memorable Stablefords and enough competitive spirit to make every putt matter.

The quarter teed off with the Royal Ladies Open Medal No. 8 on 4th July, setting the pace for three months in which the Ladies Section would be busy both at home and on the road.

August brought the Lady Captain's Friends together for Royal Ladies Stableford No. 8. The golf supplied the competition, the friendships supplied the warmth and, once the scorecards had been handed in, the evening provided every excuse to extend the fellowship beyond the 18th.

League duty called on 23rd August as Royal faced Kiambu in the KLGU League, before attention turned to one of the quarter's headline events: the Royal Ladies Matchplay Championship on 28th and 29th August.

And matchplay, as ever, delivered drama.

In Division A, Chloe Cherono came through a fierce final against Ashley Awuor to claim the title, while Doris Mideva overcame Cherise Wachira to secure third place. Division B produced its own battle, with Christine Ondiba defeating Emmah Omwenga in the final, while Maureen secured third place after overcoming Christine Mathenge.

There were handshakes at the end, of course. But before those handshakes came the small matter of winning holes, protecting leads and discovering just how long an opponent can make a three-foot putt feel.

LADIES GOLF EVENTS

Away from the course, the Ladies Induction High Tea provided a gentler change of pace, welcoming and connecting members in the unmistakably warm spirit of the section. League action continued on 30th August as Royal faced Golf Park in the KLGU League, the HOMEb's Annual Matchplay assignment away from home.

September then took the ladies to Thika Greens for the Eileen Belcher. Royal joined Limuru, Railway, Western and Windsor in defending the Red Corner against the Blue Zone of VetLab, Sigona, Ruiru and South Rift in the foursomes matchplay showdown.

Royal's colors were carried by Cherise Wachira, Lydia Mokaya and Keziah N. Korir in Division A for the Eileen Belcher Trophy; Tesha Magira, Stella Ondimu and Alice Wanjiru in Division B's Sinclair Quaich; and Christine Mathenge, Pascalina Koske and Joyce Wafula in Division C for the Palmer Trophy.

LADIES GOLF EVENTS

Then came a Wednesday dressed in black and yellow; and carrying a little bit of golfing magic. Royal Ladies Stableford No. 6 on 9th September, supported by Athena Re and Technician World, saw Martha Mbote win Division A, Emma Omwenga Division B and Irene Mutiso Division C. But the loudest cheer belonged to Damarise Olale. One swing. Hole No. 13. Straight into the cup.

The quarter's final major home showcase arrived on 19th September with Royal Ladies Medal No. 9 — the September Pendant — sponsored by Seslaw Advocates under Managing Partner Silas Jakakimba. Turquoise swept across the course as Rose Wanjiru, playing off handicap 20, returned a superb nett 66 to emerge overall winner. Cherono Kipkorir claimed the Gross prize, Keziah N. Korir won Division A, Pascalina Koske Division B and Lucy Mambo Division C.

From turquoise to black and yellow, Stableford to matchplay and Royal's familiar fairways to league battles away from home, this period had the unmistakable signature of the Royal Ladies: serious golf, generous friendship and plenty of color along the way.

HONORARY SECRETARY'S STATEMENT

Membership and governance remain important areas of focus as we continue to strengthen the Club and prepare it for the future.

During the quarter, the Club continued with the vetting and balloting of membership applicants.

The sustained interest in joining Royal is encouraging and reflects the Club's standing and appeal among golfers seeking to become part of one of the country's most respected golf clubs. At the same time, our membership processes remain guided by the standards and procedures that protect the character and traditions of the Club.

We are also nearing completion of the work to revise the Club's bylaws. Members can expect to receive a draft in the coming weeks for consideration. This is an important exercise in ensuring that our governing framework remains relevant while preserving the principles and traditions upon which the Club has been built.

As Royal continues to grow, maintaining the right balance between welcoming new members and safeguarding the standards expected of every member remains essential. It is our collective duty to induce and incorporate the new members of our community into the culture and standard of the club; and that particularly calls on all of us to emulate the positive.

I thank members for their continued cooperation and look forward to their constructive engagement as we move forward with the bylaw review.

BALLOTING - 5TH AUG. 2026

BALLOTING - 19TH AUG. 2026

JUNIORS SECTION

SMALLER CLUBS, BIGGER AMBITIONS

There is something wonderfully reassuring about watching junior golfers walk onto the first tee with bags nearly as tall as they are and confidence considerably taller.

This quarter gave Royal's youngsters several opportunities to do exactly that, continuing a year in which the Club's young golfers have shown that the future of Royal golf is not simply approaching; it is already on the course.

The quarter began with Junior League action against Karen Country Club on 5th July. These fixtures offer something a practice range cannot quite recreate: the pressure of representing the Club, the discipline of competitive golf and the camaraderie of playing alongside teammates in Royal colors. The league returned on 2nd August when RNGC faced VetLab, providing another valuable test against familiar junior rivals and another opportunity to sharpen those competitive instincts.

Then came one of the warmest junior occasions of the quarter: the Mulembe Junior Golf Tournament on 9th August.

The course belonged to the youngsters, and they made excellent use of it. Arna Mengi (HCP 9) emerged an overall winner with a gross score of 82, while Aron Varma (HCP 13) took the corresponding overall honors with a gross 88.

Led by George Esuchi and Vice Captain Edwin Kinisu, the Mulembe Society put together a fantastic junior day, with parents, supporters and young golfers creating precisely the atmosphere in which junior golf thrives: competitive enough to encourage improvement, relaxed enough to keep the game fun.

Continue...

JUNIORS SECTION

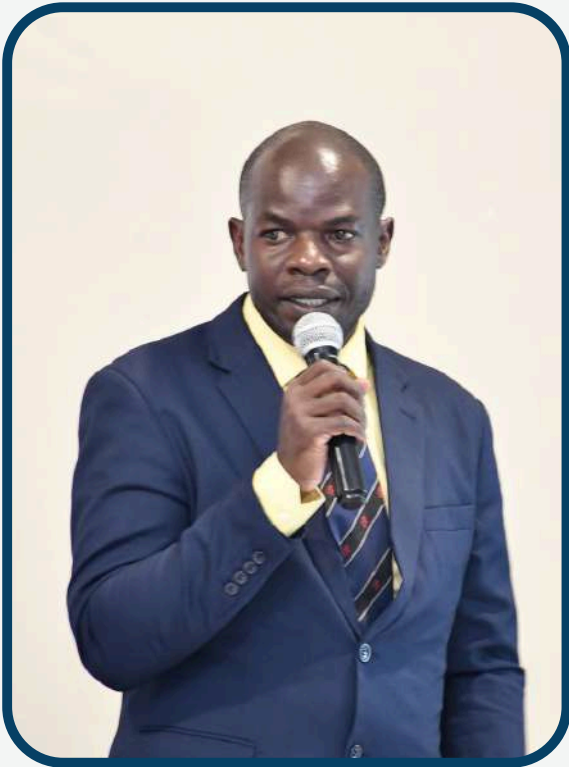

Royal's junior talent also continued making its presence felt beyond junior-only competitions. Chloe Cherono stepped into the spotlight during the Royal Ladies Matchplay Championship, overcoming Ashley Awuor in a fiercely contested final to become Division A Champion; another reminder that Royal's development pathway is already producing golfers capable of competing strongly on the wider Club stage.

The quarter closes with another Junior League assignment against Golf Park on 27th September, offering the youngsters one more opportunity to wear the Royal colors and collect the competitive experience upon which future champions are built. Scorecards will record the numbers. They will not record the nervous first tees, lessons absorbed after difficult holes, friendships forming between competitors or proud parents following a few steps behind. Those are part of the story too.

The swings are getting stronger, the competition sharper and the ambitions bigger.

HONORARY TREASURER'S STATEMENT

The financial health of the Club remains an important priority as we continue to support the activities, operations and improvement projects that contribute to the member experience.

During the quarter, we continued to monitor the Club's financial position closely. The first-half annual audit is currently underway, and we await the auditor's report. The audit process is an important part of maintaining accountability and giving the Club a clear and objective view of its financial position.

At the same time, the Club continues to undertake improvements to its facilities and course.

Such investments require careful planning and responsible financial management to ensure that we continue improving the Club while maintaining financial resilience and sustainability. This we continue to uphold.

Our approach remains one of prudent stewardship: supporting necessary improvements, maintaining appropriate financial discipline and ensuring that resources are directed towards priorities that provide lasting value to the Club and its members.

I thank the Board, members, management and staff for their continued support as we maintain our focus on the Club's long-term financial sustainability.

Treasurer

GENERAL MANAGER'S STATEMENT

The quarter between July and September has seen continued activity across the Club, with attention to our facilities, course and overall member experience remaining at the heart of our day-to-day operations.

A significant development has been the refurbishment of the Royal Garden in partnership with Savanna. The addition of an outdoor bar and kitchen, together with new parasols, has transformed the space and created an enhanced setting for members to relax, meet and enjoy the Club. The official launch is scheduled for 8 October, and we look forward to welcoming members to experience the renewed facility.

On the course, work on the greens at holes 2 and 14 has been completed, with the greens expected to be back in play in November. Work has also commenced on holes 5 and 7 and is progressing well. These improvements are part of our continued effort to enhance playing conditions and the overall quality of the course.

Members should, however, note that the ongoing works on holes 2, 14, 5 and 7 currently mean that the course is unqualifying for handicap scoring. We appreciate members' patience as these important works progress and are working to restore normal playing conditions as soon as possible.

Beyond the projects, we continue to encourage members to make full use of the Club and its facilities. Royal is not only a place to play golf; it is a place to meet, dine, relax and enjoy the company of fellow members. We look forward to welcoming you and making the most of what the Club has to offer.

PROJECTS

FROM THE FARM TO THE TABLE: A FRESH HARVEST AT ROYAL

Just beyond the 16th green, something fresh has been quietly taking root. The Royal Farm has recently caught the attention of members, thanks to a steady harvest of one of its most sought-after produce: tomatoes.

Since tomato sales opened, the farm has maintained a reliable supply for more than a month, serving both the Club kitchen and members looking to take a little bit of Royal home. At just KES 70 per kilogram, Royal Farm tomatoes are also proving easy on the pocket, with supermarket prices currently ranging between KES 90 and KES 100 per kilogram.

And the harvest does not stop at tomatoes. The farm is also growing kales, spinach, dania, carrots and cabbages, much of which continues to find its way into the Royal kitchen. For now, tomatoes remain the only produce available in surplus, but the growing variety points to an exciting future for the farm.

Naturally, members have also been curious about what goes into producing the vegetables. According to Club Superintendent and Farm In-Charge Justus Kisina, the farm relies entirely on organic manure sourced from goat waste, selected for its suitability to the soil. The farm is irrigated from the Club dam, with no chemical fertilizers or treatments used in the process.

The farm's continued productivity will, of course, depend partly on the weather. But with a steady harvest already reaching our kitchens and members' homes, there is plenty to look forward to.

For now, the invitation is simple: bring a taste of Royal home. Order your fresh tomatoes today or book your supply through the Club's communication channels.
